The percentage of food establishments within the local authority area which are broadly compliant with food law. Broadly Compliant is an outcome measure which the FSA has developed, with local authorities to monitor the effectiveness of the regulatory service relating to food law (NI184)	83.86 %	84.26 %	?	?	86.80 %	↓	The National Food Hygiene Rating System launched in June 2011 has influenced businesses to improve. All businesses will be encouraged to display their rating on door stickers to help motivate further improvement. Whilst we have already been contacted by good businesses seeking to improve to become "top rated", many businesses at the lower end are likely to be struggling to survive. There is a high level of turnover of these businesses and any good work by Officers to promote knowledge of hygiene and management standards disappears when the business closes. A quarter 1 and 2 update is unavailable.
